

Options & Extensions

For something completely different, why not add a few nights at a Guest Ranch to your Texas holiday experience. We offer two options; one convenient to San Antonio, in beautiful Hill Country, the other is west of Dallas, ideal to combine with our East Texas drive.

Mayan Ranch (nr San Antonio) provides lodging in modern western style accommodation, with full board, horseback rides and other ranch activities such as hayrides, BBQ, entertainers, nature trails, fishing, swimming pool etc. Any duration can be booked and children are welcome.

Wildcatter Ranch (nr Dallas) has been in the same family since 1870, and offers a taste of the Western Spirit in a region steeped in history. Full board and all ranch activities are included in the cost, and facilities include archery, skeet shooting, infinity pool, hot tub, hiking trails and of course horse riding. Any duration can be booked and children are welcome, although the minimum age for riding is 10 yrs.

Highlights

San Antonio and The Alamo

With strong cultural and historic appeal, home to the State's four biggest attractions, The Alamo, River Walk, San Antonio missions and Sea World.

South Padre Island

A resort island with loads of recreational options.

A resort Island and conservation area with recreational options including wildlife (turtles) viewing

Big Bend National Park

One of North America's greatest national parks. Not all desert, oases support conifer forests, mountains rise like islands and the Rio Grande combine to produce a very varied landscape.

El Paso

A blend of American, Mexican, Native American, Texan, and New Mexican cultures and traditions.

Corpus Christi

Day or night driving over the Habor Bridge reveals a sparkling city and bay vista, where sailboat masts mix with the profiles of downtown skyscrapers.

Fly into San Antonio, with time to visit the Alamo. Head south to the coast at Corpus Christi then further down to the resort of South Padre Island a short distance from the Mexican border. This coastline is a bird watchers paradise with many species of migratory birds. Head inland following the border to Laredo with its old world charm and new frontier spirit, and then on to Del Rio, offering a real mix; wine tasting, bird watching, water sports, museums and more. Continue via Marathon and the historic Gage Hotel to Big Bend National Park. Back north to Fort Davis the highest town in Texas, and conforming to the Texas stereotype. Continue west to El Paso where Texas, Mexico and New Mexico meet, and a blend of cultures and traditions are displayed.

75 miles to Dallas

Arriving at the gateway airport of Dallas-Fort Worth first stop in Dallas and then drive east to Jefferson on the Big Cypress Bayou once the second largest port in Texas and still retaining an historic quarter.

Head south via Lufkin, flanked by the Angelina and Davy Crockett National Forests, to the Coast near Galveston, a highway for migratory birds. Follow the gulf coast southwest to Rockport near Corpus Christi with its great beaches and sheltered water behind the barrier islands.

From the Coast north to San Antonio with the Alamo and wonderful river walk. Then through the rolling landscape of the Hill Country to Fredericksburg with year round flowers and fashionable shopping.

Return towards Dallas and the town of Granbury with antique shops and a restful atmosphere, before heading for the airport.

Highlights

Dallas

From a log cabin in 1840 Dallas has grown to a vibrant city with plenty to choose from; arts, sports, shopping and much more.

Galveston

Set on Galveston Island surrounded by relaxing beaches. The Historic Downtown offers shops, antique stores and live entertainment in historic venues.

Gulf Coast

America's third coast, long narrow barrier islands are separated from an inner shore line by wide shallow lagoons and salt marshes, providing diverse habitats.

Bird Watching

Texas hosts more species of birds than any other state. The Gulf Coast and Rio Grande Valley in spring and late autumn are popular with bird watchers.

Hill Country

The States heartland and wine region with towns dating back to the mid 1800's. Beautiful scenery particularly along the rivers.
